Fair And Colder

It's evident that no worsening of the "cold war" is likely to follow the collapse of the foreign ministers conference. Though no important progress in relieving tensions between the western powers and Russia was made, neither were there any disastrous failures. The status quo is maintained, with the lifting of the siege of Berlin chalked up as a net gain.

Russia's reasons for wanting a new conference of the foreign ministers are still unknown. Perhaps Secretary of State Acheson now knows what they were, but they aren't public knowledge.

It had been hoped that if Russia proved to be conciliatory there might be a reduction of spending for national defense. But if the cold war is to go on, that hope may be in vain. Everything will depend on the government's interpretation of Russia's attitude.

The threat of widespread strikes also must be looked at in the light of official interpretations of Russia's intention. The rising discussion about ways and means of cushioning the collapse of the post-war boom must be geared to the same thing. To a great degree, the boom was kept booming by fear of an outbreak of war, which prompted heavy defense spending and stimulated consumer buying.

Those who guessed that Russia would turn conciliatory in order to make the post-war boom collapse and plunge the United States into depression have been left high and dry. If conciliation was any part of the Kremlin's purpose in asking for another conference of the foreign ministers, it was kept well concealed while the conference was in session.

Mr. Truman's Best Bid For Fame

The executive reorganization power given to President Truman by the 81st congress is his best bid for fame.

It is his chance to make a place for himself in history as the chief executive who finally did something about the topsy growth of the federal bureaucracy. That would be a mark of distinction, something no other president has been able to earn.

Mr. Truman already has distinguished himself in his handling of the project. He rose above partisanship to appoint Herbert Hoover as chairman of a commission to study executive organization. He cooperated with Mr. Hoover in a manner that proved he was sincere in his support of the commission.

He used his political position to get legislative action on a reorganization bill. It seems safe to assume that he will exercise his powers under the bill as finally passed. Congress shares in the credit, but Mr. Truman is the individual who will deserve and get the lion's share if reorganization is actually accomplished.

It would make a bright passage in history if a plan of reorganization worked out by a commission under Mr. Hoover were to be put into effect by an administration headed by Mr. Truman. That would prove what lately has needed proving—that the long-range welfare of the United States is more important than the short-range welfare of any of the politicians thereof.

Same Shoe, Other Foot

Automobile owners will note with interest that the banking committee of the U. S. senate is laying down a publicity barrage against the oil industry, preparatory to an investigation of gasoline prices.

The gist of the barrage is that gasoline prices are staying high, despite evidence there is no shortage of gasoline and that producers of this commodity have been doing all right profit-wise.

The purpose of the investigation, of course, will be to look for evidence that the producers may have done something in violation of federal laws making it illegal for business to enter into understandings about prices.

Meanwhile, the prices of another essential commodity—coal—have been staying high despite the fact there is no shortage of coal. On the contrary, there is a surplus. But no congressional committee is scheduled to look into this condition in the coal industry.

That's because the coal industry is in the hands of a labor union, currently engaged in a work stoppage to stabilize the industry by not producing coal. There is no law against that, unless the "stabilization" were to be carried so far that it would create a national emergency. Labor unions are not subject to federal laws that make it illegal to enter into understandings about prices.

Standard Fixtures

The mayor of Cleveland has come out flatfooted against bums in city parks.

He wants to throw them out. No more blowsy characters stretched on the grass in the shade. No more seedy old gentlemen breaking up bread to feed to the pigeons, obviously the last friends they have left on earth.

No more vagrants snoozing on park benches with their shoes off, waiting for the inevitable policeman to tell them to move on—to another bench. No more pathetic figures perched on railings—just perched there because there's nowhere else to go. No more slow-motion shufflers killing time until time kills them.

These are standard fixtures in all city parks close to congested areas. There's nothing exceptional about the bums in Cleveland's mail facing Lake Erie. But it's an exceptionally nice place for a bum to rest in between whatever it is that bums do when they aren't resting. Before Cleveland throws them out, it should consider what better use, if any, could be made of a grassy slope and a few shade trees.

THE STARS SAY:

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, June 19

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a particularly active and exciting one, with high tensions, mental urges, but all concealing a "mare's nest" unless handled with complete discretion and composure. Some pleasant things may happen, if the erratic feelings, emotions and eccentricities be held in check.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a turbulent, exciting and constructive course of events, with certain gain and progress, if wild imagination, eccentric drives, emotional intensities, be kept within bounds. Peculiar situations undermine affairs of promising significance. But personality complexities may be at the base of false moves.

A child born on this day has excellent qualities, energies and productive skills, with good mentality and initiative. An undercurrent of the emotional or erratic may negative these.

For Monday, June 20

Monday's astrological forecast is an adverse one, with little encouragement for progress, pleasant relations, careless habits or over-indulgences resulting in physical reactions, as well as all sorts of difficulties and losses—money, property, employment and disagreeable partnerships.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are likely to make a difficult, disagreeable and unproductive state of affairs for themselves, unless they keep firm grip on the tendency to careless, indulgent and disagreeable reactions on the health. Also slander, gossip and loss of prestige in home and business relations.

A child born on this day may need very early training and discipline since its natural proclivity to self-indulgence, careless habits and wayward ways may rob it of success in life.

Guarding Your Health

By DR. HERMAN BUNDESON

There are almost as many answers to the question, "What causes gas?" as there are people. Thus, when a patient complains of excessive gas, a careful study is indicated to determine its causes.

It is important to learn whether the gas is brought up by belching or whether there is bloating or swelling of the stomach.

Gas Eliminated
Normally, the gas which is formed in the bowel during digestion is taken up by the blood, carried to the lungs, and there eliminated from the body. It is only when this process fails that gas accumulates in the intestine in large enough quantities to cause distress.

In adults, gas forms chiefly in the large bowel. If it is trapped in the lower portion of this tube, it may exert enough pressure on the stomach to cause belching. It is normal to belch after a large meal, but constant belching is usually due to air swallowing. This habit is often due to some nervous disorder.

Bloating is often caused by eating foods which are gas-forming, such as beans, onions, and bulky foods. Then, too, certain foods produce bloating in oversensitive individuals, thus producing pain in the small intestine. According to Dr. Walter C. Alvarez, of Rochester, Minnesota, the foods most often responsible for such symptoms are cabbage and the like, raw apples, radishes, cucumbers, chocolate, coffee, peanuts, and at times even eggs.

In persons with an irritable bowel, constipation may cause swelling or stretching of the bowel. In such cases small amounts of gas may be passed every few minutes. This may sometimes be eliminated by the injection of a salt solution, each day for one or two weeks, into the lower bowel.

Various Causes

There are various conditions or diseases which may be responsible in part for gas formation. Among them are hernia, ulcer, and a disease known as sprue, in which there is inflammation of the bowel. Colitis is another cause. Allergy or oversensitivity may be another source of difficulty.

Bloating which becomes worse during the day and clears up at night, may be due to the dropping of the organs because of weak abdominal muscles.

Emotional disturbances are frequently responsible for disorders of the bowel action together with excessive gas formation. Diverticulosis in which outpouchings occur in the wall of the bowel may lead to gas formation, particularly when these little pouches become inflamed.

Excessive gas in the bowel is occasionally relieved by certain drugs. Peppermint is often helpful. A small amount of an alcoholic beverage is sometimes beneficial. Distress may also be relieved by taking a little food or water, by walking around, or by massaging the abdomen.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

L. A. G.: What is the cause of colitis?
Answer: There are many types of colitis, resulting from various causes. Some cases are due to infection; others are due to the

Through the Years with Salem

Settling in Salem, 1810

Newcomers to Salem received hearty welcomes from established families in the days when our town was very young. Older residents extended the hospitality of their homes while the new family was clearing land and cutting logs for a cabin. When sufficient logs had been cut everyone in the community would assemble to "raise" the house. With many hands helping, the actual construction was usually finished in a single day and the family moved in at once. Considerable work was still necessary on the interior, but once this was accomplished the whole village would be invited back to participate in one of the nicest of frontier festivals, the housewarming.

Today, we're so accustomed to the efficiency of large scale production that some folks are inclined to overlook the fact that we can't have anything until it has been produced. We're so used to teamwork that some persons have come to believe that all we have to do is ask the government for the things we want. Let's remember that not even the government can give us something for nothing. If we want to have something, we have to make it.

to ALL OF US.

LET'S CELEBRATE A HALF CENTURY OF GROWTH AT OUR BIG "OPEN HOUSE" THIS WEEK!

It's "Open House" at Timken — and we want you, our friends and neighbors, as well as all Timken people to be our guests.

Over the years, you've done a lot to help us keep TIMKEN the world's number one bearing — so we want this "Golden" Anniversary to be your celebration as much as ours.

There'll be plenty to see and plenty to do, both on the route of the regular tour and off. If you don't see everything you want to see ask one of the guides to show it to you. He will be there for that purpose.

You'll see many special displays and exhibits that show how Timken has been "smoothing the path of progress for 50 years." But we're not just celebrating the last 50 years. You'll know from the modern machinery and production methods you see that we think it's the next 50 years that count the most.

Don't miss this chance to see one of America's basic industries in action!

Things Getting Back To Normal, Tribe Sweeps Over Yanks

'Phillies Going Great, Big Credit Due Rookie Roberts; May Take Lead Before July

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer
It's about time somebody started paying attention to those "Phillies" from Philadelphia. While they're at it, they could so give the double-o to the Yanks, young bonus pitcher, 22-year-old Robin Roberts.

A chronic second division club since 1932, the Phils weren't given a tumble in pre-season pools, only the most optimistic favored them with a first division berth. Now here it is the middle of June, and Eddie Sawyer's scrap-bunch are in the thick of the season fight—two games from the top. And judging by the way the Phils have been knocking off all opposition of late, it would be no surprise if they took the league leadership from Brooklyn before the month is out. They've won 15 of their last 19 games.

but allowed only three hits in seven innings to gain his first major league victory.

The Philadelphia Athletics moved to within half a game of the second place Detroit Tigers, defeating the St. Louis Browns, 6-5. Joe Coleman weathered two bad innings to go the route and register his sixth victory.

The scheduled night game between Detroit and the Senators in Washington was postponed due to rain.

"SMASH LEADERS" IS NEW BATTLECRY FOR RISING CLUB

Satchel Paige Goes To Mound Today; Early Runs Clinch Game

NEW YORK, June 18—(AP)—"Smash the front runners" is the battle cry of a Cleveland In- dian ball club that goes into to- day's game with the league lead- ing New York Yankees with six straight wins—three from Bos- ton's Red Sox and three from the Yanks.

Satchel Paige, whose last hurrahing chore was a victorious four-inning relief stint against Washington, faces New York's Vic Raschi, baseball's leading chucker with 10-1.

The first two of the games cop- ped from New York were in a double-header before the Tribe left on the eastern swing Tues- day, but yesterday's 10-4 victory was clubbed out on the Yankees' home grounds.

The victory, coupled with three straight at Boston, gives the Tribe a sweep of four road games. On their last road trip they won only two out of twelve.

Four homers, all off losing Pitcher Bob Lemon cracked the others. Keltner also got a single for three of the Tribe's eight hits.

Following the formula of the successful series in Boston, the Tribe opened up with two of the homers in the first inning to score three runs. Keltner whacked one 400 feet into the left-field stands and Doby poked his into the third deck in right. Keltner's two blasts gave him four RBIS for the day.

Lemon allowed the Yanks five hits before being forced out of the game in the seventh because of wildness. After giving up two of his six walks, Dick Kryhoski tagged him for a double scoring a run. Al Benton then came to the rescue and retired the side allowing only one more run.

National Crow Shooting Contest Busy, Eerie, Noisy

CINCINNATI, June 18—(INS)—The 1949 national crow shooting championships will rock the area of Grand Rapids, Ohio, today with a confusing shindig that combines all the features of a busy cement mixer, Chloe's eerie bout with the swamp, and a Fourth of July nightmare.

These annual outdoor jam- bores bring together the most nondescript sportsman gathering to be viewed anywhere. Hal- loween hath no masquerade like the annual contests of the Amer- ican Crow Hunters association.

The scores of crow shooters from across the country who will enter this year's event probably will reach an all-time high in subterfuge of dress, since cam- ouflage, deception and general sneakiness are their key stocks in trade. Jungle warfare garb, for example, has contributed greatly to postwar crow shooting.

Nothing is certain about a na- tional crow shooting champion- ship, except that it is compara- tively safe despite the fact that contestants are armed with load- ing shotguns. One prediction, how- ever, seems obvious, and it is that the 1949 champion will be a man under 40.

Age and competitive crow shooting mix about like crow shooting and brass bands. Each year the national becomes a more gruelling contest, and the recent champs have been, in addition to skilled callers, and ex- cellent wing shots, well under their 50's.

Eddie Mergard, the defending champion, is a 38-year-old Cin- cinnati bowling lane executive. A new ruling which extends the shooting period to three hours will give the younger, more ath- letic contestants an additional edge. The shooting period was formerly two hours.

This forthcoming eleventh an- nual championship will be shot in Lucas, Henry, Wood and Fun- tion counties, Ohio, under the sponsorship of the League of Ohio Sportsmen, with the Grand Rapids Sportsmen's club as host. Official Referee Jim Stuber will send the contestants to their drawn shooting areas at 1 p. m. Entries will shoot for the first 30 minutes in their assigned areas, then will be permitted to shoot anywhere in the four-county re- gion.

Oral examinations on the contestant's knowledge of crows.

DINER MOVES UP EASY WAY; LETS OTHERS BATTLE

Deming Knocked Out Of 1st In American Loop. Amvets Edge Parkers

The easiest way to slip into first place in a softball loop (ask the Salem Diner today) is to sit back and be idle while the other teams battle themselves out of the picture.

That's exactly what happened at West End park in the Ameri- can league Friday night. Joe Kelley received a big, shiny au- tomobile from a flock of friends and the Diner, not playing, had first place given it on a silver platter.

It came about this way: Park- ers, previously tied for second with the Diner, lost out to the Amvets, then in third and now in second, 6-5 in 13 innings while the Democrats upset the previous- ly front-running Deming club 6-3, putting Deming down to the Amvet level in a second place tie.

The idle Diner, meanwhile, au- tomatically moves up to the front with a 5-1 record. If it can con- tinue to win, it has first place solidly in hand.

The Amvet-Parker battle was truly a thriller. It went 13 frames before finally being settled and it was a battle for blood all the way. The veterans collected nine hits to only six for Parkers, Bill Pauline hurled the Amvets to victory and Bell was the loser for Parkers.

The surprising Democrats had the sway on Deming all the way. The victory puts the Democrats up high with a 4-2 record and a solid grasp on fifth place.

In a third game, between the VFW and Mullins of the National league, rain caused postponement before the game was officially far enough along.

JERSEY JOE WALCOTT READY FOR BATTLE WEDNESDAY; SAY HE IS IN TOP FORM

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
KANKAKEE, Ill., June 18 — (AP)—At an age when most fel- lows get winded just running for a street car, Jersey Joe Wal- cott has run 300 miles.

This road work, plus 131 rounds against sparring mates, has left him as solid as a bull and as fire- breathing eager as one preparing to toss a matador.

Jersey Joe, age 35-40, is a trim 196 pounder and confident he will chill 27-year-old Ezzard Charles and win the N. B. A. ver- sion of the world heavyweight boxing championship.

They tangle in Comiskey park, home of the Chicago White Sox, Wednesday night. Advance sales thus far are reliably reported under $100,000. This is a far cry from the gate of $715,470 paid by 45,500 fans at the same site 12 years ago to watch Joe Louis cap- ture the crown from James J. Braddock.

The speedy Charles, who gained most of his fame as a light heavy, is expected to enter the ring at 185. In preliminary exam- inations yesterday, he topped 186½.

The hard-hitting Cincinnati Negro currently rules a 7-5 fa- vorite. But Walcott is the senti- mental favorite.

After giving the Camden, N. J., Negro a blood pressure and heart- beat test, Dr. J. H. Houston, chief physician of the Illinois athletic commission, said:

"I don't know for certain how old Walcott may be, but whatever his age, he is in perfect condition. He is an amazing specimen."

Louis, who at 35 has retired and vacated his heavyweight throne, finds a guy just as old—and probably older—in there bat- tling to gain it.

That's the unique angle about Walcott, twice beaten by Louis and now getting a third crack at a world's title at an age when most of 'em are packing up.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—A letter to any veteran:

Well, soldier, I made my trip into memory. I went to see the foxholes of Europe that I remembered.

And if you plan to revisit the battlefields that still disturb your dreams, maybe I can give you a tip or two to help you on the way.

The main thing, I would say, soldier, is don't go back alone if you can help it. You'll find it quite a shock to see how much the earth has swallowed your war.

I don't know just how to put into words the feeling you get when you learn that the foxholes you remembered so well don't remember you at all now—no more than a hotel bed recalls its last guest. But it is a mixed feeling—a kind of resentment at life and death and change, and an utter loneliness and desolation of spirit.

That is why it is better to go back with someone who can share that feeling—a buddy or a group of buddies. Together you can better forgive the soil that once gave you shelter and now has forgotten you altogether.

I know. I went back with a group of 47 war correspondents on a tour sponsored by the American Overseas Airlines. And we were grateful afterward that we had each other's company when memory kicked us all in the face.

Whether you should take your wife, along, soldier, I couldn't say. If she's the right kind of wife, why sure—okay. But there is also the other kind who jaws: "You call this a battlefield? I'd rather see that blonde ruin it."

hear you shackled with in Belgium."

This type of wife it would be better to jettison in Paris. Let her go shopping while you go on to plumb the past by yourself.

Probably you will want to call on a buried friend, or the friend of a friend, and bring him some flowers. Before you do that, it might be better to write the American Graves Registration command, care of the War department, in Washington. Give them the name and the location of the grave you want to visit, and get permission.

The reason for this is the U.S. permanent military cemeteries overseas are still in process of completion, and some of the soldier dead are being returned home. Under such circumstances the A.G.R.C. doesn't want any mere curiosity seekers around. By next year the cemeteries will be in fine shape—landscaped and lovely.

Looking back over this letter, soldier, I wonder if I have given you the impression that it isn't worthwhile to make this trip into memory at all because it will be too painful. Well, if I did, I didn't mean to. It is very much worthwhile.

It is painful but one pain sometimes cancels another. Too many men who fought the war have secretly hugged it too long in their hearts and minds now. They have made war a terrible sweetheart, a mistress who taught them much, gave them little, and took their youth.

But nothing cures an old romance like seeing the old sweetheart again years later. And that is why it is good to go back, soldier. It'll put the war in proper perspective.

It'll teach you how unimportant any one battlefield should be in your life, which is a thread that links many battlefields—more in peace than in war.

her to give it to an attorney working on the Amtorg case when she had finished with it.

Testimony in the trial has brought out that the justice department long has considered prosecuting Amtorg for failure to register as a foreign agent. No action has been started. Amtorg claims that it is exempt from registering on the ground its activities are purely commercial — not propaganda or espionage.

Miss Coplon, 28, testified that she now believes a "top secret" FBI report on Soviet spying in this country "also was a decoy of some sort."

A typewritten note found in the defendant's purse said: "I have not been able (and don't think I will) to get the top secret FBI report which I described to Michael on Soviet and Communist intelligence activities in the U.S."

Defense Attorney Archibald
Palmer asked her whether this was written in connection with a book she was writing in "a seriocomic vein."

"That's what it was about," she replied.

loads to 8,000 with axles less than eight feet apart, or 11,000 pounds on vehicles with axles more than eight feet apart, was prepared by the director of highways.
